Gli aforismi dei Gatti con le Ali

(Aphorism of Cats with wings)

Le nove vite dei Gatti con le Ali

(The nine lives of the cats with wings)

“Cats with wings” developed from an aphorism of the actor Dick Shawn: “Would it be possible for cats to have wings, they would not be birds, they’d be angels”. The idea of a black cat, which has always been linked to obscurity and all sorts of spells, with a pair of angel like wings, thus just the opposite, resulted in 1996 from the pencil of Alessandro Pennasilico, graphic designer and illustrator.

“Cats with wings” debut with a series of appealing and successful good wishes cards. Thus, came a book, calendars, bookmarks and gift-wrapping paper all containing sentences, aphorisms and lines by philosophers, writers, authors belonging to that century.
